

"OKLAHOMA" MALONE
BEFORE THE COURT.

THIS TIME IT WAS AS AN ATTORNEY HOWEVER.

Argues For a Change of Venue in a Case For False Imprisonment Before Judge Bennett at Jefferson—Railroad Company Cannot Be Made to Pay For Scaring a Horse.

JEFFERSON, Feb. 9.—Judge Bennett has a full calendar before him in the Jefferson county circuit court. Attorney "Jim" Malone who has just returned from Oklahoma appeared for the plaintiff in the case of William G. Cody vs. J. E. Balliger, Herman Graew, Edward Johnson, Fred C. Werner and William F. Whyte, of Watertown, for damages for false imprisonment, and made an affidavit that the court was so prejudiced that his client could not obtain a fair trial and asked that the case be sent to some other county. Judge Bennett announced that he would call in Judge Siebecker. Mr. Malone announced that he would probably present Judge Siebecker affidavits to show that the people of the county are also prejudiced against Mr. Cody, and will again ask that it be removed to another circuit court.

The case of Benjamin F. Rowe vs. C. & N. W. R. Co., for damages for the killing of a colt, which got on the track, was tried and the court directed a verdict for the railway company. The parties agreed that the animal got on the track without the fault of either the owner or the railway company, and as it appeared that the engineer stopped the train as soon as he could and that after the train was stopped the colt ran on and into some trestle work and broke his leg, so that he had to be killed, the court held that the company could not be held liable for simply frightening the animal.

GOT A VOTE ON SILVER

Committee of the Whole Work on Bland's Bill.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—The parliamentary battle over the Bland silver seigniorage bill was resumed immediately after the reading of the journal yesterday morning. Mr. Reed sought to challenge the right of the house to pass the resolution to arrest absentees, which was carried just before adjournment last night, on the ground that the last call of the house showed a quorum. The question as to whether a quorum was present on the call was disputed, as it did not appear in the journal, and Representative Reed moved to amend the journal so as to make this fact appear. This motion was lost.

Mr. Bland then renewed his motion of Wednesday to go into committee of the whole to consider the seigniorage bill.

Filibustering was at once in order. Mr. Reed (rep., Maine) first tried to have the journal corrected and then delayed matters on a point that the sergeant-at-arms was ordered to arrest absent members and asked that the officer be summoned to report. Dilatory motions and demands followed and it was nearly 2 o'clock before the roll-call on Mr. Bland's motion to go into committee of the whole on the silver seigniorage showed it was carried. The vote was: Yeas, 176—democrats, 142; republicans, 24; people's party 10. Total, 180. The house went into committee with Mr. Hatch (dem., Mo.) in the chair. Mr. Bland, in opening the debate, explained the provisions of the bill.

The first section provided for the coinage of the seigniorage or gain on the coinage of silver which had accrued to the government under the silver purchase act of July 14, 1890. Some asserted that there could be no seigniorage until the whole amount of the bullion was coined; but neither the secretary of the treasury nor he (Mr. Bland) held this view. The bill provides for the issuance of silver certificates and silver notes on the seigniorage and the remaining silver bullion in the treasury and that when these are redeemed by the silver dollars so coined, they shall not be reissued. The bullion was to be coined only for the redemption of the certificates and notes. At 4:45 Mr. Bland moved that the committee rise, which was agreed to. He then offered a resolution rescinding so much of the order adopted Wednesday evening as requested that the sergeant-at-arms should arrest and bring before the bar of the house any members who were absent without leave. This was agreed to after a brief discussion.

Mr. Dockery (dem., Mo.) in behalf of Mr. Dingley (rep., Me.) asked unanimous consent for the immediate consideration of the bill to regulate the making of property returns by the officers of the government. The bill was agreed to without debate, and then at 4:50, on motion of Mr. Tracey (dem., N. Y.) the house adjourned.

Mr. Tracey of New York, who led the democratic fight against consideration of the seigniorage measure, says there will be no more democratic opposition, but that debate must be unrestricted.

TO MEET DEFICIENCY.

Senator Teller's Question as to the Financial Policy.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—Secretary Carlisle's bond plan was the subject of much discussion in the senate yesterday on the resolution of Mr. Stewart (rep., Nev.) declaring it to be the sense of the senate that the secretary of the treasury has no authority to issue bonds except under the resumption act, and that the money derived from the sale of bonds issued under that act cannot be applied to any other purpose than as specified in the resumption act. Mr. Stewart modified the resolution by adding to it the following clause:

"And in the opinion of the senate there is no present necessity for the sale of bonds for the purpose specified in the resumption act."

Mr. Butler (dem., S. C.) moved to refer the resolution to the committee on judiciary, and Mr. Sherman (rep., Ohio) favored such reference. Mr. Quay (rep., Pa.) said that the reference proposed would be simply giving the resolution a decent burial, and he opposed it.

Mr. Morrill (rep., Vt.) opposed all the propositions.

In the course of a desultory discussion Mr. Teller (rep., Colo.) said that he wanted to know what congress was going to do with the question of deficiency. He said:

"I want congress to determine, once for all, directly and speedily, whether it is to adopt some system of revenue gathering that will bring revenues enough to the treasury to maintain the credit of the government and to pay current expenses or whether it is to enter on a system of running in debt to the amount of $100,000,000 or $500,000,000. If running in debt is to be continued without any attempt to increase the revenue the debt will be increased by $1,000,000,000 before it is stopped. If the dominant party does not act in the matter it is the duty of the minority to insist that the majority shall act."

Mr. Gorman (dem., Md.) moved to refer the resolution to the committee on finance. Pending action on that motion the morning hour expired and the resolution went over till to-day.

The senate then proceeded to the consideration of house bill (passed the house Oct. 17, 1893) to require railroads in the territories over a right of way granted by the government to establish stations and depots at all town sites on the lines of the roads established by the interior department.

Mr. Berry (dem., Ark.) who had reported the bill from the committee on railroads, explained and advocated it, but it was finally laid aside without action and at 3 p. m. the house resolutions on the death of Representative Mutchler of Pennsylvania were laid before the senate, and Mr. Quay (rep., Pa.) offered the usual resolutions of condolence and respect. Eulogies of the life and character of Mr. Mutchler were pronounced by Mr. Quay, Mr. Mitchell (dem., Wis.), and Mr. Hansbrough (rep., N. D.). The resolutions were agreed to and the senate at 3:30 adjourned till Monday next.

No Wilson Bill Substitute.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—The report that Mills, Vest and Jones (Ark.) are preparing a substitute for the Wilson bill is denied. The Wilson bill will be reported, as heretofore announced. It is believed the only change noted since Tuesday is that instead of reporting in favor of a 50-cent duty on iron ore and coal, iron ore will be left on the free list and a 30-per cent duty will be put on coal, while the tax on whisky will be increased 10 cents per gallon and the bonded period extended to five years. It is quite likely, however, that other changes will be made before the bill is introduced, but nothing nearly so radical as reported in the morning press is deemed at all likely.

GUS FINN INJURED
BY A FLYING TEAM.

QUEER RUNAWAY ACCIDENT AT SHARON.

His Brother's Horses Ran and Scraped the Injured Man From His Load as They Scurried By—Heavily Freight-Wagon Passed Over Him As He Lay.

SHARON, Feb. 9.—Gus and Kenney Finn had an exciting experience in a runaway in which the former was severely hurt. Kenney was driving along the road when the team kicked themselves loose and ran away, fastened together by the neck yoke. One passed on each side of Gus' load, picking him up with the neck yoke and carrying him over the heads of his own team, and dropping him squarely in front, when the forward team also became frightened and ran over Gus with load and all. The result of his injuries cannot yet be told.

THE KEARSARGE IS LOST.

Famous United States Warship Sunk Off South America.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—The United States steamer Kearsarge was wrecked on Roncadore reef Feb. 2. The officers and crew were saved. The news reached the navy department yesterday in a dispatch which came from Colon. It was sent by Lieut. Brainard of the Kearsarge, which reached Colon Feb. 8.

The Kearsarge by last reports sailed from Hayti for Bluefield's, Nicaragua, to which it was ordered on account of the trouble between Nicaragua and Honduras. It is supposed that the vessel is a total wreck. But fortunately there appears to have been no loss of life. The vessel was one of the oldest in the navy and had a splendid history.

Immediately on receipt of the cable-gram Secretary Herbert sent a message to Lieut. Brainard directing him to charter a vessel at Colon and proceed at once to the assistance of the shipwrecked men. It is presumed that they are yet on the reef. Commodore Ramsey, chief of the bureau of navigation, who knows the neighborhood, said that the officers and crew would be in no danger on the reef except in very heavy weather, and they could easily reach Old Providence, an island between the reef and the Nicaragua coast, in their boats. No fears for the safety of the ship's company are entertained at the navy department in view of Lieut. Brainard's dispatch.

Later in the day Secretary Herbert received an answer to his cable message sent to Lieut. Brainard at Colon. Lieut. Brainard said that the mail steamer City of Para is available and she will proceed to the relief of the shipwrecked crew of the Kearsarge.

Naval officers believe that the Kearsarge has not gone to pieces and may not do so for some time unless rough weather comes on. The tides and currents about the reef are, however, swift and dangerous. Acting Rear Admiral Stanton is said to have been on the Kearsarge. When the New York and Detroit were sent to Rio Janeiro it was the flagship of the North Atlantic squadron, and Rear Admiral Stanton was ordered to proceed to Port au Prince and transfer his flag to the Kearsarge and assume command of the station.

The most important event in the history of the gallant old Kearsarge was her famous victory over the rebel vessel Alabama, which she sank off Cherbourg, France, on Sunday, June 19, 1864. She was then commanded by Capt. Winslow, a former shipmate of Capt. Semmes.

When the Kearsarge was built she was up to date in most matters of naval architecture. She could steam twelve knots an hour, a high speed for that period, and was armed with guns quite as good as those carried by any vessel of her size. Since that time her boilers have been renewed so that she could steam but ten knots an hour, and as a matter of fact steam was only an auxiliary to her sails. She was overhauled a year or so ago and the wood below the water line was examined for the first time in fourteen years. It was found to be as sound as the day it went into the ship and almost as hard as iron.

Free Coinage, Increased Currency, Government Ownership of Railroads.

TOPEKA, Kan., Feb. 9.—The National Farmers' alliance adopted the following demands, as recommended by the committee on resolutions:

1. We demand a national currency, safe, sound and flexible, issued by the general government only, a full legal tender for all debts public and private, and that without the use of banking corporations; a just, equitable and efficient means of distribution direct to the people; that a tax not to exceed 2 per cent be provided, as set forth in our sub-treasury plan, or some better system, also by payments in discharge of its obligations for public improvements.

(A) We demand the free and unlimited coinage of silver and gold at the present legal rates of 16 to 1.

(B) We demand that the amount of circulating medium be speedily increased to at least $50 per capita.

(C) We demand a graduated income tax.

(D) We demand that our national legislature shall be so framed in the future as not to build up one industry at the expense of another.

(E) We demand all national and state revenues shall be limited to the necessary expenses of the government, economically and honestly administered.

(F) We demand that postal savings banks be established by the government.

2. The land, including all the natural resources of wealth, is the heritage of all the people and should not be monopolized for speculative purposes, and alien ownership of land should be prohibited; all lands now held by railroads and other corporations in excess of their actual needs and all lands now owned by aliens should be reclaimed by the government and held for actual settlers only.

3. Transportation being a means of exchange and a public necessity, the government should own and operate the railroads in the interest of the people. The telegraph and telephone should also be owned and operated by the government in the interest of the people.

The following resolutions were adopted, not as additional to the political demands of the alliance, but as subjects to be discussed in the sub-alliances:

Resolved, That we favor a graduated property tax.

Resolved, That we favor such legislation by the states as will place the liquor traffic under state agents properly bound to obey the law, so as to eliminate from the business the corrupting element of profit.

A resolution was also adopted recommending alliances to discuss the referendum during the coming year, a resolution making it one of the principles of the order failing of adoption.

TRAIN WRECKERS IN TEXAS.

The Brakeman Shot and Three Other Men Hurt.

HOUSTON, Texas, Feb. 9.—An attempt was made to wreck the incoming passenger Saturday night on the Missouri, Kansas & Texas at Houston Heights, where the electric cars cross the road. Obstructions had been placed and a street car ran into the trap. When the motorman got down to remove the obstructions he was fired upon from ambush and badly shot. Last night a successful attempt at wrecking was made. Four miles out is a high bridge at White Oak Bayou. Here the wreckers removed the rails and fishplates. When the passenger train came along the engine passed safely over, but the baggage and mail cars jumped the track and rolled down the bank, followed by the smoker, which landed on top of them. The following men were hurt:

CARTER, J. W., baggage man, injured internally.

ELLIOTT, JOE, brakeman, shot from ambush.

HATTON, H., found in car badly hurt.

MORRIS, LON, express agent, injured in the wreck.

The wreck presented a frightful appearance. Joe Elliott, a brakeman, was sent back to flag a freight train which was soon due. He had not proceeded a hundred yards when a volley from ambush was fired at him. Five bullets took effect in his body. The crew in the meantime, aided by passengers, were at work extricating the men buried in the wrecked cars and feared to go to the flagman's rescue. He, however, crawled, bleeding and wounded, back to the train and now lies dying. In the mail car was Lon Morris, the agent, badly bruised and with several broken bones. H. Hatton, the express messenger, was found in his car with his ribs broken and in a critical condition. J. W. Carter, baggage master, was injured about the head and internally. A relief train was made up here and sent to the scene. The wounded were brought in and are in the hospital. Poses are on the scene and great excitement prevails. There will be several lynchings if the wreckers are found.

DAN'S BROTHER TO TESTIFY.

Th was Coughlin will Verify the Story About "Smith."

CHICAGO, Feb. 9.—An immense crowd gathered in the courtroom yesterday in the expectation that Dan Coughlin would take the stand in his own defense. The people were disappointed. Coughlin did not testify and may not appear as a witness at all. His attorneys are reticent on this point. Mr. Donahue stated that he could not yet say whether his client would be called on to testify. His brother, Thomas from Hancock, Mich., will, however testify, and is expected to prove a valuable witness for the defense. He is supposed to know all about the mysterious "Smith," who is said to have driven Cronin to his death. The evidence given to-day was confined to efforts to prove an alibi for the prisoner. Cross-examination so mixes up the witnesses that the effect of their testimony upon the jury is uncertain.

500 OLD SOLDIERS TO GATHER HERE.

ENCAMPMENT OF THE WISCONSIN DEPARTMENT APRIL 25.

One of the Largest Meetings That Was Ever Held By the Grand Army of the Republic Is Expected—Colonel J. A. Watrous Will Probably Be Elected Commander.

There will be more copper buttons in Janesville next April than you can pack away in a bushel basket and "the big bass drum will go boom! boom! boom!" while sharp keyed fife and rattling snare will make the small boys think of the Fourth of July and fire crackers. There will be flags on every building and the very air will be charged with patriotism. Thirty years ago the same sounds had the same effect and to this fact the coming demonstration is due. The Wisconsin men who went to fight for their country are going to meet here on Wednesday April 25, in the annual encampment for the department for Wisconsin of the Grand Army of the Republic and martial music will be at a premium. Your old soldier might get by a brass band without turning his head but a drum corps brings him up standing with shoulders thrown back in readiness for the command "right forward! fours right! march!" From three to six hundred people will attend the encampment, there being three hundred delegates and the same number of alternates nearly all of whom will be here.

The general headquarters will be established at the Grand Hotel and the Woman's Relief Corps headquarters will be at the Hotel Myers. The encampment is expected to be one of the largest ever held. One of the important matters that will come up will be the election of a commander. There is no opposition apparently, to Col. J. A. Watrous, the brilliant editor of the Milwaukee Telegraph who is one of the most prominent and best posted men both in the affairs of the G. A. R. and all other matters, that Wisconsin contains. Janesville extends her right hand to the old soldiers and bids them welcome one and all.

CATARRH OF THE MIDDLE EAR.

Frequent Destroyer of the Hearing. The Great Cause of Deafness.

A great many patients have presented themselves to Dr. McChesney, at his office in the Wilcox block, East Milwaukee street, this city, and have asked what causes deafness. Doctor McChesney explained to them and will now explain to the public at large what causes deafness.

"First," says Dr. McChesney, "I would have all persons know that the ear consists of a tube leading from the outside of the head to a delicate curtain which blocks this passage up. Then from the throat there leads another tube called the eustachian tube which ends on the other side of this delicate curtain called the ear drum. The waves of sound strike the drum, cause vibrations which are carried to the brain and registered as sounds, and so we hear.

"Now, deafness results in four cases out of every five from catarrh which has existed some time, and slowly extends from the throat backwards and upwards along the eustachian tubes and thence to the middle ear. The presence of catarrh in the little tube leading to the ear, results in closing up the tube. When the eustachian tubes are closed up to any extent, deafness ensues from inability of the air to get back of the drum of the ear. Unless there is air behind and in front of the drum, the hearing is impaired.

"Ringing or buzzing sounds in the ear accompany this condition and in some instances the catarrh in the eustachian tube entirely plugs these tubes up. Abscesses form, there is pain called 'ear-ache,' and after a while the abscess breaks and the ear discharges a bad smelling pus, all caused by catarrh. The only way to relieve these cases of deafness is to cure the catarrh first, then treat the ears. In these cases artificial drums and all other appliances are worse than useless. Remember that deafness resulting from catarrh rarely, if ever, gets well left to itself, but almost invariably gets worse until total loss of hearing results. If you have catarrh and are deaf, first have your catarrh cured, then your deafness may be relieved or even entirely cured.

MERRY TIME FOR FRANK A. OWEN

Neighbors Rally At His Home and Extend Heartly Congratulations.

Footville had a sensation Wednesday evening. At about 8 o'clock a band of conspirators, male and female, with mysterious looking packages in their arms could have been seen wending their way toward a handsome residence, the home of Frank A. Owen. The company was composed of the friends of Mr. Owen and his estimable wife. The surprise was complete but did not disconcert the lady of the house though she was not in party attire. The company continued to receive additions until about seventy persons were present. When the uninvited guests had been received and made comfortable, Mr. Peterson, the pastor of the Methodist church presented Mrs. Owen with a beautiful rocker as a souvenir of what will be to them a bright event in life's journey. Mr. and Mrs. Owen responded in a feeling manner, and a song was rendered by Mrs. E. Strang and Mrs. Williams. After the invocation of the Divine blessing the afore-said packages materialized into toothsome viands in abundance, which were heartily enjoyed. Mr. Owen has but recently moved into his new house and the event partook of the nature of congratulations thereupon, and was a sincere expression of the regard for the family.

For the relief and cure of a cold in the head there is more potency in Ely's Cream Balm than in anything else it is possible to prescribe. This preparation has for years past been making a brilliant success as a remedy for cold in the head, catarrh and hay fever. Used in the initial stages of these complaints Cream Balm prevents any serious development of the symptoms, while almost numberless cases are on record of radical cures of chronic catarrh and hay fever after all other treatments have proved of no avail.

JANESVILLE ALARM CAN'T MISS A BLAZE.

HOWE BROTHERS' FACTORY WELL PROTECTED.

The Moment a Blaze Starts in Any Room the Big Gong in the Engine House Rings Automatically—System to Be Extended to Stores, Warehouses and Dwellings.

The automatic fire alarm in the new factory of the Howe Brothers was given a satisfactory test this morning in the presence of a large number of local manufacturers and business men.

The alarm is an invention of Henry Klein, superintendent of the city fire alarm service. Thermostats are placed on the ceiling in each room. These are located so near together as to give warning of even a small blaze. The thermostats are connected by wire with the fire stations. In the stations a gong is connected. Excessive heat in the factory breaks the connection with the machinery in the fire station and bang goes the gong. Switches are also placed in each room in the factory, from which the firemen can be signaled without breaking the thermostat connection. The system costs but little considering the amount of material required. Mr. Klein is putting the system into factories, shops and stores at cost. The system is as complete as any in the large cities and costs much less. It is a never-sleeping fire watch, and is one of the surest and safest auxiliaries to the fire alarm machinery known. C. W. Hodson is contemplating putting the alarm in his new flouring mill.

PERSONAL NOTES.

A reproduction in terra cotta of Mrs. Frank Leslie's foot is to be placed on exhibition in New York.

Bismarck says the French were placed where they are for the purpose of keeping Germans awake.

Miss Henrietta Afong, whom a commander of the United States navy has made Mrs. William Henry Whiting, is 18 years old, is one-half Chinese, three-eighths American and one-eighth Hawaiian.

When Joachim, the great violinist, pays his annual visit to England he will probably be accompanied by his daughter, Fraulein Joachim, who will then make her first appearance in England as a singer.

John Hamilton Brown, who invented the wonderful new wire segmental gun, is a native of Maine, where he was born in 1837. Both of his parents were relatives of Commodore Perry, the hero of Lake Erie.

Mrs. Fatena, wife of the new minister from Japan, finds one practical fault with the American style of women's dress. She has found that one cannot sit on the floor in it with either grace or comfort.

John Palmer, the inventor of the railroad check system, died last year in a little town in Michigan. He was a fiddler years ago, and took charge of the hats and wraps of those who came to dancing parties. He gave numbered checks for them, and some railroad men who attended one of his dances appropriated the idea, and in a little while the system was adopted all over the country.

The widow of Admiral Porter, who died at the age of 74 in Washington lately, was the daughter of Commodore Patterson of New Orleans who assisted Andrew Jackson in whipping the British before that city in the war of 1812-14. The Pattersons, as well as the Porters, were a naval family, two of Mrs. Porter's brothers being respectively Admiral Patterson of the navy and Captain Patterson of the coast survey.

One of Rudyard Kipling's neighbors in Brattleboro is William A. Conant, who might justifiably be called the "American Stradivarius," for more than fifty years he has made very excellent violins and cellos. He had a high reputation in Boston and New York for workmanship as far back as 1841, and since that time he has manufactured as many as 700 violins of fine quality. Mr. Conant is now eighty-nine years old. Stradivarius made violins when ninety-two.

Charles E. Fish, of the Royal National lifeboat institution at Ramsgate, England, who has a record of saving 887 lives, was honored by a public demonstration at Manchester recently.

A number of native North Carolinians residing in Baltimore have formed an association to purchase and preserve the land on Roanoke island, N. C., where Sir Walter Raleigh, in the year 1584, planted the first English colony in the New World. The tract includes about 250 acres on the northeast corner of the island, and on it stands the ruins of the original fort built by Raleigh.

How to Make a Will-o'-the-Wisp.

Of course you know that a real will-o'-the-wisp is the effect of hydro-carbon gas generated by decomposing organic matter in a marsh and in a state of combustion. But did you know that you could produce this phenomenon in your homes? Take an open-mouthed glass jar and place some baking soda in the bottom, over which pour a little diluted sulphuric acid, muriatic acid or strong vinegar. Then the jar will fill with carbonic-acid gas.

Now lower a lighted candle into the gas until it goes out, leaving the top of the flame still burning upon the surface of the invisible gas. The flame will be fed by the gases coming from the smouldering wick. This will-o'-the-wisp lasts but a short time, but it may be reproduced by raising the candle until the wick relights, then lowering it again. In order to make a success of this experiment see that the air of the room is very still.

SENATOR GEAR.

The Iowa Statesman Well Schooled for His New Responsibilities.

John H. Gear, the senator-elect from Iowa, was born in Ithaca, N. Y., 63 years ago. In 1836 the family came west to Galena and in 1839 to Fort Snelling. Mr. Gear, as a young man, went to Burlington, Iowa, his present home, in 1843. His education was only such as he had been able to secure at home and pick up by contact with the world and he went to work in a store for $30 a year and board and lodging. He continued in this way until taken into partnership by the firm for which he was working in 1854, and the firm continued in business until 1870.

In 1863 he was elected mayor of Burlington on the republican ticket by a majority of 133. In 1872 he was elected a member of the Fourteenth general assembly and was one of the members of the committee on railways. In the Fifteenth general assembly Mr. Gear began to achieve a state-wide reputation. This was the celebrated "Granger legislature" of 1873, of which he was speaker. It was during this session of the legislature, which did a wonderful amount of business, that Mr. Gear earned his sobriquet of "Old Business," which has clung to him ever since. Mr. Gear was now thoroughly in the political current, and he was nominated and elected as a member of the Sixteenth general assembly in the fall of 1873 while he was absent from the state, and again became the speaker. In 1877 he was a candidate for the republican nomination for the office of governor. The "Old War Governor," Kirkwood, had been elected United States senator, and Lieut.-Gov. J. G. Newbold had filled out the unexpired term of the governorship. He was a candidate for the nomination, and so also was Buren R. Sherman, the state auditor. There were 981 votes in the convention, and on the first ballot Mr. Gear received the nomination. In the campaign that followed for the first time the prohibition question was made a factor of some importance in the governorship contest. Mr. Gear was elected, but by a minority of the votes cast, thus being the first minority governor that the state had ever had. Two years later, however, he was again elected governor, this time by a plurality of 72,000, the largest plurality ever given to a state officer in Iowa. In 1886 the republican congressional convention, held at Columbus Junction, nominated him for membership of the Fiftieth congress. The sitting member, Benton J. Hall, was the democratic candidate. Mr. Gear was elected by a majority of 1,037. He was again elected to the Fifty-first congress, defeating John J. Seerley, the democratic candidate. Gov. Gear was renominated to the Fifty-second congress while he was in Washington. The democrats again nominated Mr. Seerley and he was successful, Mr. Gear going down in the landslide of that year. He was nominated by acclamation for the Fifty-third congress. Mr. Seerley was once more his opponent and Mr. Gear was elected by a majority of 639. After the election he was appointed by President Harrison to the position of assistant secretary of the treasury. In the Fifty-third congress he was appointed to the ways and means committee, and took a prominent part in preparing the minority report on the Wilson tariff bill. In the fight for the senatorial nomination he was at all times conceded to be the strongest candidate.

Aluminum vs. Magnesia.

The use of aluminum in place of magnesia for the production of flashlight is strongly advocated by Prof. Glasenapp. He states that aluminum, if employed in the form of bronze powder, is not only equal to magnesia as a source of light in taking photographs by flashlight, but that it is really much cheaper than the latter. The following is stated to be the proper mixture for the purpose: Aluminum powder 21.7 parts by weight, sulphide of antimony 13.8 parts, and potassium chlorate 64.5 parts, the same precautions being taken in preparing the mixture as in the case of the magnesia flashlight. In regard to the rapidity of combustion of such a mixture one-seventeenth of a second has been found out; two grams of the mixture were burned in a small heap, two cm. long and one cm. wide. And in respect of chemical intensity, Prof. G. states that he found by exposing gelatine plates beneath a Warnerke actinometer to the light of said mixture and to that of other mixtures prepared with magnesia, the employment of equal quantities of the metals resulted in a superior light from aluminum, though not of considerable amount. The speed of combustion is ascertained to be slower—about one-fifth of a second—if a mixture is used composed of thirty parts, by weight, of aluminum powder and seventy parts of potassium chlorate.

Gold in the East.

Aunam, a French protectorate in Asia, has a silver coin that weighs as much as fifteen United States dollars. The largest gold coin in circulation is the "loof," which also belongs to the oriental French colony mentioned above. This monster gold disk will weigh as much as 325 American gold dollars and, although weighty and awkwardly large, are considered valuable property. The gold piece which comes next in size to the "loof" is the "obang" of Japan, a coin containing about $47 worth of pure gold.

HATRED OF HONESTY GRATIFIED.

The repeal of the federal election law ought to be enough to show that it is the democratic party which has stood for all these years as the unfaltering foe of honest elections. It was to restrain the democratic party from violence and fraud against the ballot box that the federal election law was enacted originally. It is non-partisan in its operation. It aims only to catch the rogue and punish him and prevent him from securing political force through his roguery. If it were to be bent to purposes of dishonesty, this could be done by democrats when in power as well as by republicans. But it is well to remark, and it is too significant ever to be forgotten, that no voice of republican complaint has ever been raised against this law. It is the democrat alone whom it limited, and who found his opportunity for a successful political career closed by it. It is almost amazing that the party should have been willing to make the confession conveyed so unmistakably by the long fight to do away with a law aimed at the prevention of fraud at the polls. Republicans may be well satisfied to see it won. It is well to have the party make its record complete. To have the election law taken from the statute book will make no great difference in the actual conduct of elections; it will make all the difference in the world to the voter, who identifies with the unresting war against honest elections the party that is responsible for it. Individuals not seldom pay for the gratification of some old grudge a price which, to the calm onlooker, seems strangely disproportionate to the satisfaction to be got out of it. The hate which a war upon frauds at the polls has weakened in the democratic party is now satisfied, but the settlement of the case in the people's court of justice will come later.

DAMAGE DONE BY GRESHAM.

The Reed rules are Cleveland's only salvation when it comes to a pinch. The Madison Democrat remarks:

"By counting half a dozen vacant seats the democrats of the house managed to pass the resolution censuring Stevens and affirming the untruth that the United States did not want the Hawaiian islands. There may be some doubt about the wisdom of annexing Hawaii but the discussion of the past few months shows clearly enough that the popular feeling is favorable to such a proceeding. But the democrats had to get the party out of the hole that it got in by the selection by the president of a chump rather than a democrat for secretary of state."

Democratic good times are coming. Suppose wages are from 20 to 50 per cent. lower, there will be plenty of work and the wage-earner will be humbled. Isn't that what democratic success was intended to bring about? It will be another one of Mr. Cleveland's "object lessons," intended to teach the working-man that he has been too haughty under a protective tariff.

Clark Howell, of the Atlantic Constitution, says: "Shylock has spoken for the bonds, and Shylock will get them." Well, what else could you expect? Shylock didn't put a democratic administration in power for fun.

It may be just as well to remark that Henri Watterson's new lecture on "The Compromises of Life," is not an inside history of the tariff plank of the Chicago convention.

Some of the democrats in congress seem to assume that a lie well stuck to is as good as the truth. They will discover their error when the people get a whack at them again.

Secretary Carlisle's idea of a popular bond issue appears to be to sell nine-tenths of them to Wall street.

AS JERE MURPHY VIEWS IT.

It might expedite matters if Mr. Peckham could get himself attached as a rider to the Wilson bill in the senate.

It has got to be admitted that there is something peculiar about a jail management when prisoners who have no desire to escape turn up in court charged with new offences before the expiration of the terms for which they were sentenced to jail.

If there are any more members of the majority of the last Wisconsin legislature who have not been rewarded with a federal office by either Senator Mitchell or Senator Vilas, they should come forward at once. The latest advices from Washington are to the effect that there is still room for a few more feet in the trough.—Madison Journal.

PUNISHMENT FIXED AT DEATH.

Excitement at Manasses Over the Trial of Two Men for Assault.

RICHMOND, Va., Feb. 9.—At Manasses yesterday there was more excitement than on any day since war times. James Robinson and Benjamin White were taken into the town under military guard to be tried for assault. Robinson was tried, found guilty, and his punishment fixed at death. White will be convicted to-day. The town is crowded with people from the surrounding country, who are anxious for the early death of the men. The prisoners are being guarded in the old Cannon house.

Rich New Yorkers Threatened.

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—A placard in Latin was found posted under the electric button of the doorbell of the house of Chauncey M. Depew. It covered a foot in space and was as follows:

"Brothers: Remember the glorious example of Vaillant. Death to the rich man. This is a marked man. Warn all."

"By the will of the common people." Placards identical in all respects were found upon the door posts of the Vanderbilt residence, the residences of John Jacob Astor, Mrs. John D. Rockefeller, H. M. Flagler and C. P. Huntington.

Jones; for auditor, W. T. B. Lynch; for commissioner of agriculture, Rev. S. M. Adams; for superintendent of education, J. P. Oliver; for attorney-general, Warren S. Reese, Jr.

The form the memorial will take will be decided upon when sufficient money has been subscribed to warrant the erection of a worthy monument.

A Contractor's Advice.

Dullman's German Medicine Co., Gentlemen: I take great pleasure in testifying in behalf of Dullman's German Blood, Liver, and Kidney Cure. I can safely say that I have such medicine as that to cure all ailments of the blood, liver, and kidneys. I was suffering for years with indigestion, and loss of appetite, sleep. One bottle of it did me more than six months' other treatment, and I feel it my duty to testify in its behalf, so others may not get cured.

Yours truly, Mrs. McDonald, Milano, Feb. 9.

WITS AT WORK.

Wife—The doctor says I need a change of climate. Husband—Well, the sky looks as if we'd have it in a few hours.

"Has there been any change in the editor's life since he was converted?" "None that I know of—he's broke now, just as usual."

She—What a sweet mouth Miss Smilingly has. He—Well, I should say so. I always dodge her during the soda water and ice cream season.

She—I wonder if there will be anything to talk about in the next world? He—Oh, yes. You know there is always something to say on the other side.

She—You told me at the seaside that you were in business for yourself, and I find you a clerk in a store. He—I was in business for myself last summer. I peddled suspenders.

"Paw, is there any difference between a cold and an influenza?" "If the doctor calls it a cold the bill is about $4. If he calls it influenza it's about $18. The difference is $14 my son."

"The wall-flower," remarked the philosopher, "is often the only girl in the ball room who can cook a dinner." "Yes," said Miss Worthing, "and the girl who dances is the only one who can digest it."

Brown—I understand that Senator Green wanted you to act as his private secretary. Simmons—He did, but I wouldn't accept the position, because I should have to sign everything: "Green, per Simmons."

Little Girl—If I was a teacher I'd make everybody behave. Aunt—How would you accomplish that? Little Girl—Real easy. When girl's was bad I'd tell them they didn't look pretty; and when little boys was bad I'd make them sit with the girl's, and when big boys was bad I wouldn't let them sit with the girls.

They met by chance in the waiting-room of a railway station. "My friend," began the man with the valise full of tracts, persuasively, "have you ever reflected on the shortness of life, the uncertainty of all things here below and the fact that death is inevitable?" "Have I?" replied the man in the shaggy overcoat, cheerfully. "Well, I should reckon! I'm a life insurance agent!" "Ah—um—looks as if we were going to have more snow, doesn't it?" said the other, locking his valise again with a snap.

UNEXPECTED ANSWERS.

He—So the engagement is at an end? She—Yes. He—Who broke it? She—The minister who married us.

Lady—If you really love me prove it. He—Willingly. This water beside us is both cold and deep. Jump in and see how quickly I'll bring you out.

Tom—I can read your thoughts. I know just what you are thinking about now. Daisy, blushing indignantly—Nonsense! If you did propose I'd refuse you. So there!

She is the brown-eyed girl who works in the telephone exchange, Washington, and he is the young man who is sometimes more energetic than courteous. "Hello, central," he called the other day. "This is the second time I have called you. Have you been asleep?" "Yes," she answered, sweetly; "I have, and I had such a strange dream. I thought I heard a voice from the infernal regions and awoke just in time to hear you calling. What number?"

One of the duties of the beadle of O—, says the Toronto Empire, is to assist in taking up the collection, which is done by means of the old-fashioned ladle. A young minister was about to preach his first sermon, and feeling very nervous he confided his fears to the friendly beadle. "Preach!" said that worthy contemptuously, "that's naething to haeing to collect the bawbees. I am aye feared I knock aff the ladies' bannets wi' the ladle."

"Dear me," he whispered, "do you think if I married you your father would ever forgive us?" "I'm sure he would, dear," she asserted softly. "And would he give us a house of our own?" "I know he would, dearest." "And would he give us enough to live beautifully on?" "I am sure of it, Harry." "And would he take me into the firm?" "Certainly he would." "And let me run the business to suit myself?" "Of course he would, darling." She snuggled to his bosom, but he put her aside coldly. "I can never marry you," he said hoarsely. "Your father is too willing to get you off his hands."

I Was Very Nervous

During the spring. My appetite was poor, my bowels in bad shape, I had no strength, could not sleep even when I was tired, and when I got up in the morning I felt more tired than if I had walked 20 miles. In fact, had no energy at all. I was urged to take Hood's Sarsaparilla, and can say that thousands have said before, that it worked wonders for me—gave me strength, appetite, vigor and energy for work. I feel now that life is worth living. I am so grateful to Hood's Sarsaparilla that I feel it my duty to write this voluntarily.—EDWARD O. DOHERTY, Dover, N. H. Be sure to get HOOD'S, because

Blindness.

If there is any affliction more grievous than another it is loss or impairment of sight. The man or woman who is compelled to go through life in darkness is always an object of pity.

That many diseases of the Eye that lead to total loss of sight are curable, if taken in time, and scientifically treated is readily admitted. Janesville is fortunate in having added to her staff of physicians an whose skill is recognized and whose practice has already developed to a degree that seems wonderful. Dr. H. A. McChesney possesses skill in treating diseases of the Eye that is indeed remarkable and many people are enthusiastic in his praise.

Glasses.

The aid to failing Eye sight are always a blessing, when properly fitted but any one who is compelled to wear them will admit that the Eye should be skillfully examined by a scientific man who understands not only the mechanical methods but also the delicate construction of this most delicate organ.

Dr. McChesney claims that in a large majority of cases the eye needs treating more than it needs artificial aid, and that when properly treated, that the natural vision can be restored without the aid of glasses. After a thorough and scientific examination and treatment, the doctor furnishes glasses when needed, without additional charge.

Deafness

next to the loss or impairment of sight, the loss of hearing is always considered the most grievous. Dr. McChesney's skill in treating deaf people is second to that of no specialist in the country. One of his patients, Mrs. F. L. Smith, is a lady who lives near the Lutheran church in the Fourth ward. Two months ago when she commenced treatment with Dr. McChesney, she was unable to hear the chime bells, and she had been so deaf for 15 years, that she could hardly hear a sound. Today you can converse with her comfortably and the chances are that at the end of her treatment she will be fully restored.

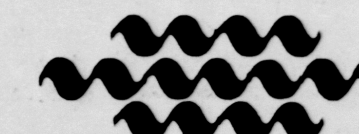

The doctor has many other cases that are steadily improving.

Catarrh

That disease that is so common in this climate, and that leads to such a variety of diseases such as consumption, bronchitis, asthma and a long line of minor complaints, yields readily to Dr. McChesney's skillful treatment. His blood remedies for catarrh in connection with his local treatment invariably brings relief and the worst cases are permanently cured. This of course requires time, and especially where the disease is deep seated and chronic, as is often the case, but if the patient will take the time and carefully follow the treatments a cure is almost absolute.

If you are suffering from any of the diseases which Dr. McChesney makes a Specialty you should lose no time in consulting him

GAS FUND WILL PAY FOR 100 ARC LAMPS.

ALDERMAN EDWARD SMITH TALKS OF THE PROJECT.

One Hundred Lights Could Be Located From One to Three Blocks Apart and Give Excellent Satisfaction He Says—Schedule of Prices in Other Towns.

"We do not want to do anything that the tax payers do not favor," was the answer that Alderman Ed. Smith of the Fifth ward made to an inquiry in regard to the proposed lighting of the city with electric lights. "The committee are giving the matter careful consideration. I have here a map which shows that one hundred lamps when distributed throughout the city, will be but from one to three blocks apart. This would in my opinion, illuminate the city in good shape. The lights would burn until 3 o'clock in the morning and on every night in the week; moonlight, starlight or dark. I have met a number of business men who favor the idea but I think it proper that the people should talk the matter over fully before anything was done. Ex-Alderman McKee once canvassed the city with his horse and buggy and decided that 105 lights would do the work fully."

Cost Would Not Be Exorbitant. "How about the cost?" asked the reporter.

"Well, it wouldn't cost us any more than it does now. The gas fund would pay for all the lights. I have here a schedule of the electric lights in Wisconsin and the cost of the same. You can publish it and then let the people see what they can do. The rates are more favorable than those of any other city except Racine and their lights only burn until 1 o'clock."

The schedule is as follows:

Cities	No. Lamps	Hours Lighted	Cost per Lamp
Bay Claire	75	All night	$110
Milwaukee	100	All night	110
Madison	75	Dark till 12	78
Racine	140	Dark till 1 a. m.	59
Beloit	35	Dark till 1 a. m.	70
Chesham	35	Moonlight schedule till 1 a. m.	75

"By 'dark till 12' is meant that the lights are burning until midnight."

"What action will be taken?"

"Well, that we cannot tell; the committee seem to think favorably of it."

ASHTON EXPECTS TO GET BAIL.

Interviewed in Madison He Declares That He Is Innocent.

Matthew R. Ashton has been interviewed by Madison reporters and says he can obtain bail and expects that he will emerge from the jail within a day or two.

Ashton says that he has perfect confidence that the courts will yet declare himself as guiltless as he knows himself to be. The Madison Democrat says:

"Ashton wants to go on the stand in his own behalf and will no doubt now be permitted to do so. His attorneys before thought he could be cleared without him doing so. Other and new material witnesses for the defense are also to be called."

SAY THE NOONANS SOLD LIQUOR.

Orfordville Case Before Judge Phelps For the Second Time

Two days M. J. and Mary Noonan, of Orfordville, have lingered in the municipal court, charged with selling liquor without a license. The jury disagreed and the case had to be tried over. Arnie and Nels Branten bought two "alcohol punches" at the Noonan restaurant and the minions of the law swore out the warrant. Nels and Arnie couldn't say, however, when put on the stand whether they got what they called for or not. Just what an "alcohol punch" is seems hard to decide. District Attorney Wheeler appears for the state and William Smith for the defense.

CAPT. GLASS HEARS OF A PLUM

Rumor that He Has Been Appointed as a United States Commissioner.

Rumors are current on the streets that Capt. Glass has been designated by Assistant Secretary of War Doe, as a member of a commission to make a tour of the west and southwest. Captain Glass has heard nothing of such an appointment. It is known, however, that a prominent Janesville democrat has been working the wires for this same appointment, and should the rumor prove true there would be at least one very badly disappointed man in town.

WANTS ITS JAIL BIDS BACK.

Janesville's Quarantine Compels Dane County to Leave Prisoners Here.

The pesky quarantine has raised Cain with the sheriff. Now that the Dane county authorities are occupying their own jail they want to get their prisoners back instead of paying their board here. Sheriff Bear is unable to tell them when the prisoners can be taken away because he doesn't know when the quarantine can be raised.

More Evidence.

Rosenfeld's great closing out sale of winter goods is proving a phenomenal success. The people do not seem to be able to get there fast enough to get the bargains. Yesterday a well known gentleman, who is in the butcher business, came in and took three overcoats home for inspection intending to keep one. He was so well pleased that he went in this morning paid for two of them and returned the third. Thus it will be seen that people know that Rosenfeld's is the cheapest and best in the city.

ASHTON CASE MAY AFFECT THE VOTE.

WILLIAM SMITH SUGGESTED FOR CIRCUIT JUDGE.

Friends of Judge Bennett Highly Grati-fied With the Endorsement Given By Rock, Green and Jefferson County—John Winans and L. B. Caswell Mentioned as Possibilities.

The Ashton case will cut quite a figure, it is said, in the judicial campaign this spring.

Just why this should be is hard to say, but friends of Judge Bennett declare that the opposition to the judge's re-election has centered thus far among those who want the Fulton man to have a new trial.

Two petitions, one favoring the election of Judge Bennett and the other favoring William Smith for circuit judge are in circulation, and are receiving many signatures.

"I think Judge Bennett has the inside track," said one of the circulators this morning. "Nine out of ten whom I approach sign Judge Bennett's petition cheerfully."

Allowance must be made, of course, for personal friendship in so sweeping a declaration. Mr. Smith's friends are backing him earnestly, although he himself is taking no action. Mr. Smith was one of the three prominently mentioned when the judicial convention was under discussion.

Out in Green county Judge Bennett's paper is being generally signed and the only other name mentioned by this week's papers is John Winans.

In Jefferson county Judge Bennett's name is the only one mentioned seriously thus far, although one or two have mentioned the name of Hon. L. B. Caswell.

THE JUDGESHIP NOMINATION.

Non Partisan Convention Not a Possibility Under the Present Law.

EDITOR GAZETTE:—To the few who are ventilating their aspirations for judicial honors in the columns of the Recorder of this city, it has not occurred that the nomination of a candidate for the office of circuit judge could hardly be accomplished except by a convention or meeting of organized electors or delegates representing a political party which at the last election before the holding of such convention or meeting polled at least two per. cent of the entire vote cast in the district for which the nomination is made, or by a nomination paper signed by one for every one hundred voters residing in such judicial district. See Section 23, Revised Statutes.

All the talk and bluster about a non-partisan convention to make such nomination is merely to create prejudice against the nomination paper being circulated and so generously signed by all parties irrespective of previous political associations, nominating our worthy judge, John R. Bennett, a candidate for the office of circuit judge of the twelfth judicial circuit court of this state.

SMOKE DAMAGED MUCH TOBACCO

The Hay Tool Building Was Used for a Store House for Leaf.

The chief damage done by fire at the Hay Tool factory was to the tobacco. Between three and four hundred cases of tobacco were stored on the floor. This room was filled with dense smoke, and it is claimed the tobacco is greatly damaged.

The Hay Tool building is owned by Levi B. Carle and is insured with Pfenig & Moser for $2,000. The Hay Tool Company was insured for $4,000, $1,000 with Silas Hayner, $1,000 with A. J. Baker and $2,000 with Metcalf & Cleland. H. B. DeLong had $8,000 insurance on his tobacco with Metcalf & Cleland.

The Hay Tool company loss is mostly by water. A large quantity of metal work and pulleys on the first floor and in the basement were wet, and are more or less damaged. The metal and pulleys will have to be cleaned and oiled before made saleable.

JEALOUSY CAUSED THE TRAMP WAR.

TROUBLE THE RESULT OF PERSONAL FEELING.

Sheriff Now Under Contract and That Has Caused Feeling—Turnkey Griffey Is Not Censured By Janesville People For They Take Little Stock in the Fuss.

Whether or not charges are preferred against Turnkey Griffey for the alleged letting of tramps loose before their sentence expired remains for District Attorney Wheeler to decide. Janesville people do not take any stock in the howl that goes up at Madison. The whole thing is the result of a fight between the Dane county sheriff, who now works under contract, and some other officers. Madison papers say that District Attorney Leary will endeavor to have the turnkey at Janesville, who they say released one tramp after he had served three weeks of a two months sentence, and the other half a thirty days sentence and before their time was up. The tramps in question are the two who bobbed up in Madison three weeks after receiving a sixty day jail sentence. Turnkey Griffey denies that any prisoners have been let go, and says the only way these could have escaped is by impersonating some vagrant whose term was up and who was booked for discharge. Jailer Meehan, of Madison, does not deny that he turned tramps out before the proper time and Judge Donovan sentenced him to two days' imprisonment, the time which the tramps had still to serve before legal discharge.

And all day long the storm beat upon the substantial buildings of the old barracks and flooded the low ground about the sheds and stables. Drills for the infantry were necessarily suspended, several sentries even being taken off their posts. The men clustered in the squad-rooms and listened with more or less credulity to the theories and confirmatory statements of fact as related by the imaginative or loquacious of their number. The majority of the officers gathered under the flaring lamp-lights at the sutler's store and occupied themselves pretty much as did their inferiors in grade, though poker and punch—specialties of Mr. Finkbein, the sutler—lent additional color to the stories in circulation.

From this congress the better element of the commissioned force was absent, the names, nationalities and idiomatic peculiarities of speech of the her husband's side when he's sick and sufferin'? Didn't they root him out of bed and comfort this day and ride him down like a felon in all the storm? Sure it was the doughboys' orders, sir. I told Doyle the capt'in never would have—

"Oh, be quiet; I must see Doyle, and at once."

"Sure, he's not able, capt'in. You know how it is with him; he's that sensitive he couldn't bear to talk of the disgrace he's bringing on the capt'in and the battery, and I knowed he'd been drinkin', sir, and I came back to look for him, but he'd got started, capt'in, and it's—

"Stop this talk! He wasn't drinking at all until you came back here to hound him. Open that door, or a file of guard will."

"Och! thin wait till I'm dressed, for decency's sake, capt'in. Sure I'll try and wake him."

"YOU NEED NOT LIE, JEFFERS," HE SAID.

individual members being identical in most instances with those of their comrades in arms in the ranks. "Brax" had summoned Minor, Lawrence, Kinsey and Dryden to hear what the post surgeon had to say on his return, but cautioned them to keep quiet. As a result of this precaution, the mystery of the situation became redoubled by one o'clock, and was intensified by two, when it was announced that Private Dawson had attempted to break away out of the hospital after a visit from the same doctor in his professional capacity. People were tempted out on their galleries in the driving storm, and colored servants flitted from kitchen to kitchen to gather or dispense new rumors, but nobody knew what to make of it when, soon after two, an orderly rode in from town dripping with mud and wet, delivered a note to the colonel and took one from him to Mr. Ferry, now sole representative of the officers of Battery "X" present for duty. Ferry in return sent the bedraggled horseman on to the battery quarters with an order to the first sergeant, and in about fifteen minutes a sergeant and two men, mounted and each leading a spare horse, appeared under Ferry's gallery, and that officer proceeded to occupy one of the vacant saddles and, followed by his party, went clattering out of the sally-port and splashing over to the levee. Stable call sounded as usual at four o'clock, and, for the first time in the record of that disciplined organization since the devastating hand of yellow jack was laid upon it the previous year, no officer appeared to supervise the grooming and feeding. Two of them were at the post, however. Mr. Doyle, in arrest on charge of absence without leave, was escorted to his quarters about four-fifteen, and was promptly visited by sympathizing and inquisitive comrades from the Hotel Finkbein, while Mr. Ferry, who had effected the arrest, was detained making his report to the post commander. Night came on apace, the wind began to die away with the going down of the sun, the rain ceased to fall, a pallid moon began peering at odd intervals through rifts in the cloudy veil, when Cram rode plashing back into barracks, worn with anxiety and care, at eleven o'clock, and stopping only for a moment to take his wife in his arms and kiss her anxious face and shake his head in response to her eager query for news of Waring, he hurried downstairs again and over to Doyle's quarters. All was darkness there, but he never hesitated. Tramping loudly over the gallery, he banged at the door, then, turning the knob, intending to burst right in, as was the way in the rough old days, was surprised to find the bolt set.

"Doyle, open. I want to see you at once."

All silence within.

"Doyle, open, or if you are too drunk to get up, I'll kick in the door."

A groan, a whispered colloquy, then the rattle of bolts and chain. The door opened about an inch, and an oily Irish voice inquired:

"Hwat's wanted, capt'in?"

"You here?" exclaimed Cram, in disgust. "What business have you in this garrison? If the colonel knew it you'd be driven out at the point of the bayonet."

"Sure, where should wife be but at

And then more whispering, the click of glass, maulin protestation in Doyle's thick tones. Cram banged at the door and demanded instant obedience. Admitted at last, he strode to the side of an ordinary hospital cot, over which the mosquito bar was now ostentatiously drawn, and upon which was stretched the bulky frame of the big Irishman, his red, bleary-eyed, bloated face half covered in his arms. The close air reeked with the fumes of whisky. In her distress lest Jim should take too much, the claimant of his name and protection had evidently been sequestering a large share for herself.

"How on earth did you get here? Your house was flooded all day," angrily asked Cram.

"Sure we made a raft, sir—Louette and me—and poled over to the levee, and I walked every fut of the way down to follow me husband, as I swore I would when we was married. I'd a' come in Anatole's boat, sir, but 'twas gone—gone since last night. Did ye know that, capt'in?"

A groan and a feverish toss from the occupant of the narrow bed interrupted her.

"Hush, Jim darlin'! Here's the capt'in to see you and tell you he's come back to have you righted. Sure how could a poor fellow be expected to come home in all that awful storm this can tell ye. Lookin' at Waring was no friend of yours, sir, and worse than that, if only Lascelles could spake now—but there's thin left that can, glory be to God!"

"Oh, for God's sake shut up," spoke Cram roughly, goaded beyond all patience. "Doyle, answer me!" And he shook him hard. "You were at the Pelican last night, and you saw Mr. Waring and spoke with him? What did he want of you? Where did he go? Who were with him? Was there any quarrel? Answer, I say! Do you know?" But maulin moaning and incoherencies were all that Cram could extract from the prostrate man. Again the woman interposed, eager, fearful.

"Sure he was there, capt'in, he was there; he told me of it when I fetched him home last night to git him out of the storm and away from that place; but he's too drunk now to talk. Sure there was no gettin' down here to barx for anybody. The cabman, sir, said no carriage could make it."

"What cabman? That's one thing I want to know. Who is he? What became of him?"

"Sure and how do I know, sir? He was a quiet, decent man, sir; the same that Mr. Waring bade so truel and made Jeffers kick and bate him too. I saw it all."

"And was he at the Pelican last night? I must know."

"Sure he was in there, sir. Doyle said so when I fetched him home, and though he can't tell you now, sir, he told me thin. They all came down to the Pelican, sir, Waring and Lascelles and the other gentlemen, and they had drink, and there was trouble between the Frenchman and Waring—sure you can't blame him, wid his wife goin' on so wid the lookin' at the last month, and blows was struck, and Doyle interposed to stop it, sir, loike the gentleman that he is, and the cab-driver took a hand and pitched him out into the mud. Sure he'd been drinkin' a little, sir, and was aisy upset, but that's all he knows. The carriage drove away, and there was three of them, and poor Doyle got caught out there in the mud and in the storm, and 'twas me went out wid Dawson and another of the byes and fetched him in. And we niver heard of the murder at all, sir, until I came down here to-day, that's God's troth, and he'll tell ye so when he's sober."

she ended breathlessly, reckless of her descriptive confusion of Doyle and Divinity.

And still the Irishman lay there, limp, soggy, senseless, and at last, dismayed and disheartened, the captain turned away.

"Promise to sober him up by reveille, and you may stay. But hear this: If he cannot answer for himself by that time, out you go in the battery cart with a policeman to take you to the calaboose. And then he left."

No sooner had his footsteps died away than the woman turned on her patient, now struggling to a sitting posture.

"Lie still, you thafe and cur, and swear you to every word I say, unless you'd hang in his place. Drink this, now, and do to slape, and be rid to tell the story I give ye in the mornin', or may the knife ye drove in that poor mummy's throat come back to cut your coward heart out."

And Doyle, shivering, sobbing, crazed with drink and fear, covered his eyes with his hands and threw himself back on his hot and steaming pillow.

The morning sun rose brilliant and cloudless as the horses of the battery came forth from the dark interior of the stable and, after watering at the long wooden trough on the platform, were led away by their white-frocked grooms, each section to its own picket-line. Ferry, supervising the duty, presently caught sight of the tall muscular form of his captain coming briskly around the corner, little Pierce tripping along by his side. Cram acknowledged the salute of the battery officer of the day in hurried fashion.

"Good-morning, Ferry," he said. "Tell me, who were there when you got Doyle away from that woman yesterday?"

"Only the three, sir—Mr. and Mrs. Doyle and the negro girl."

"No sign of any lady else?"

"None, sir. I didn't go in the house at all. I rode in the gate and called for Doyle to come out. The woman tried to parley, but I refused to recognize her at all, and presently Doyle obeyed without any trouble whatever, though she kept up a tirade all the time and said he was too sick to ride and all that, but he wasn't. He seemed dazed, but not drunk—certainly not sick. He rode all right, only he shivered and crossed himself and moaned when he passed the Lascelles place, for that hound pup set up a howl just as we were opposite the big gate. He was all trembling when we reached the post, and took a big drink the moment he got to his room."

"Yes, he's been drinking ever since. I've just sent the doctor to see him. Let the corporal and one man of the guard go with the ambulance to escort Mrs. Doyle out of the garrison and take her home. She shall not stay."

"Why, she's gone, sir," said Ferry. "The guard told me she went out of the back gate and up the track towards Anatole's—going for all she was worth—just after dawn."

"The mischief she has! What can have started her? Did you see her yourself, Sergt. Bennett?" asked the captain of a stocky little Irish soldier, standing at the moment with drawn saber awaiting opportunity to speak to his commander.

"Yes, sir," and the saber came flashing up to the present. "She'd went over to the hospital to get some medicine for the lieutenant just after our bugle sounded first call, and she came runnin' out as I went to call the officer of the day, sir. She ran back to the lieutenant's quarters ahead of me, and was up only a minute or two—win down she came wid some bundles, and away she went to the north running, wild-like. The steward told me a moment after of Dawson's escape."

"Dawson! escaped from hospital?"

"Yes, sir. They thought he was all right last evening when he was sleeping, and took the sentry off, and at four this morning he was gone."

SOMEWHAT HUMOROUS.

With the Dear Girls.

Maude—We must confess that Mabel is a very pretty girl.

Gladys—Yes, very. But her complexion might be better.

Maude—And her nose is just a little too retroussée.

Gladys—Of course it is. Don't you think her hair's kind of streaky?

Maude—A little. But I object more to her mouth. It's a bit too wide.

Gladys—Like her ears.

Maude—And her eyes are such a funny color.

Gladys—Green mixed with amber—I know.

Maude—It's a pity she dresses like a fright.

Gladys—Yes, it makes her look so dowdy.

Maude (with a sigh)—But she's a very pretty girl.

Gladys—Yes, a very pretty girl.—Chicago Record.

Art's Rigid Requirements.

"No, George," said Laura. "If I take the part of Juliet in the amateur theatricals it never would do in the world for you to play Romeo."

"Why not?" demanded George, fiercely.

"Because," rejoined Laura, sadly, yet firmly, "you would not be satisfied with the stage kiss."—Chicago Tribune.

The Question Settled.

Do chickens have a language? Is a question now discussed. And for a time it looked as if we'd take it all on trust.

But now a strong committee of hens have put it through. And say in tones of thunder:

Artist—Excuse me, but that is my wife.

Candid Friend—Dear me, of course; I ought to have recognized it by its likeness to you.—Judy.

His Stock in Trade.

GONE TO THE DOGS.

The Island of Hayti Now Little More Than a Tropical Wilderness.

Not the least interesting feature of the place is the barracks, where is quartered a portion of Hippolyte's valiant army, says a Hayti correspondent of the Providence Journal. The only attempt at uniform is a suit of blue overalls, generally in the last stage of dilapidation, and a cap ornamented with red, yellow, or blue braid, according to the fancy of the wearer. Some few have shoes or straw slippers, but the majority are barefooted.

They are armed, however, with fairly good muskets, and many of them carry ugly looking knives. I saw a large number of "soldiers" on the plaza, or public square, some playing at dice and cards, some talking, others sleeping, and all lazy, dirty and ragged. This plaza, which was originally well laid out and which actually boasted of an ancient fountain in the center, was littered with refuse, rooted up by hogs, and filthy with horse offal and gang. The ancient paved walks which originally traversed it were badly broken and the loose stones were widely scattered by the hogs.

Outside of the town and as far as the eye can reach extends a hilly country covered with forest. In a long tramp through this country, we saw no cultivated land. And yet this land is said to be extremely fertile and to yield largely any tropical product that is planted upon it. From an examination of an outcropping ledge of rock I decided that the soil is nearly always rich. But the richness of this island is wasted. For even the old plantations which were well set with coffee, oranges, and coconuts are grown up to tropical forest and yield next to nothing.

Right in the midst of a jungle of wild trees and bushes I found traces of an old orange and mango grove, indicated by the remains of straight rows in which these trees were originally planted. And with the decline and ruin of the plantations has declined everything in connection with them. Even the old carriage roads which originally traversed the island and formed a channel for conveying the produce to the ports are now only bridle paths, being completely overgrown with forest and bushes. And this is Hayti, the Hispaniola of Columbus, the pride and glory of the great admiral! For it will be remembered that, after examining the other large islands of the West Indies, Columbus decided that this one was the richest and best. And later, when under French rule, it was one of the fairest and wealthiest spots in the civilized world. The whole government, in fact, is a gigantic farce.

When War is Declared

Against a man's happiness by his stomach, the enemy may be pacified and brought speedily to terms. That potent regulator of digestion, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, disciplines the rebellious organ thoroughly. Indigestion arises from weakness of the stomach, and the food in it, for want of the power to digest, decomposes and acidifies, giving rise to heartburn, flatulence and pain, besides a multitude of symptoms both changeful and perplexing. But peace soon reigns when the great stomachic is resorted to and used with persistence. Dyspepsia gives rise to morbid discomposure of mind, and even sleeplessness and hypochondria in chronic cases. To the complete dismissal of these the Bitters is fully adequate. Liver complaint, constipation, debility, rheumatism and malaria are completely subdued by this genial medicine.

IS A FINE GAME FOR WINTER SPORT

HOCKEY ON THE ICE FULL OF EXCITING PLAYS.

How the Game Is Played in the Ice Field of the Northern Country—Explanatory Pictures and Diagrams Showing Positions.

THE SOUTHERN skaters are impatiently awaiting favorable reports from easily reached lakes, while steelers are ringing merrily over many a frozen surface in the northern states and Canada. From the rough, old-fashioned "shinny" the Canadians have developed a thoroughly scientific ice game, full of interest to spectators and players, in fact one of the most dashing and certainly the fastest of all games.

Ice hockey is now played under as hard and fast rules as govern college football. It has its many tricks and stratagems of attack and defense, its plots and counter-plots, and as every player must be a swift and clever skater, it affords every opportunity for brilliant individual and combined play. Hockey was perfected with a view to its being played in covered rinks, but it answers as well for open ice, provided the playing field be bordered with heavy planks, for many scientific plays are based upon the rebound of the "puck" from the bordering wall. The "puck" is a flat, circular piece of vulcanized rubber, three inches in diameter and one inch thick. It takes the place of the ball of the old-fashioned "shinny" game. The regulation hockey stick is of hard wood three-quarters of an inch thick and in outline resembles a "shinny" stick. It is steamed and bent to form the blade, or curved portion, which is about a foot long, and whatever the player prefers under three inches in width. The handle is about three feet long and only thick enough to afford a good hold, as the stick must be light enough for one-handed use. A smooth sheet of ice 200 feet long by 100 broad is admirable for the game, but the dimensions vary. Under the rules of the Amateur Hockey association of Canada a team, or side, consists of seven players, as follows: Four forwards, a cover point, a point and a goal keeper. The four forwards play, two as center men and one on each wing. Their business is to keep possession of the "puck" if possible, and to force it in the direction of and through the opposing force's goal.

The cover point is a most important man and he must be equally ready for attack or defense play. His position changes with the advance and retreat of the forwards; he must be always in the right place and ready to return the "puck" should it be forced through his advance line of forwards. The point, being the last man to protect the goal keeper, must be a cool, powerful defense player, quick in judgment and accurate in stopping "puck" or player, also able to "lift" the "puck" for long distances and to "shoot" safely in any secure direction. The "lift" and "shoot" are the lawful strokes of the game. The former is mainly for defense and the swift scooping motion of the stick may raise the "puck" twenty feet or more in the air and send it whizzing nearly the length of the ice.

For the "shoot" the stick takes a low, sweeping motion, which sends the "puck" gliding over the surface or within a few inches of the ice. This is the shot for attacking the goal. At other times the "puck" is carried along just ahead of, or in the crook of the stick, by rapid skating and dodging. This forbids a man playing ahead of the "puck" or taking it from a player of his side, save from behind. After a lift or shoot an "opposite" player is put "offside" the moment a rival touches the "puck."

The goal posts are placed at opposite ends of the ice and are fixed upright by being frozen into prepared holes. They are six feet apart and four feet high, and a game is scored when the "puck" is passed between them and below their upper ends. The goal keeper stands just in front of them and he may stop the "puck" with feet, hands, body or stick, so long as he does not kneel or lie upon the ice. Other players stop the "puck" as best they can, but it can not be carried forward save by the stick. Two umpires, one behind either goal, decide when games are scored, and a referee settles disputes and questions of "offside" play, etc. A whistle signals a foul play and the game is then stopped and the "puck" "faced" when the foul occurred.

A match game consists of two half hours of play, with a change of goals and a ten-minute rest at half time. The game begins with the "face." The center forwards of each team face each other at the center of the ice; the FIELD AND POSITIONS.

"puck" is placed on the ice between them; the other players are in their positions; then the facing center forwards clash their sticks three times together and three times on the ice and the game is started. A clink of steel and a hurried rushing to and fro follows as the battle is waged hither and thither. The "puck" flies up and down the ice, sticks clatter, the crowd yells, and finally a sudden cannonade of Anglo-Saxon cheers and a halting of the gliding forms announce that a game has been scored.

Such is ice hockey, the finest winter game yet developed.

Hamlet Not Well Received.

The good people of Norwich, Conn., recently rose in their wrath and drove from the stage of the local theater a company of bad actors headed by Charles Leonard Fletcher of New York, who conducts the school of acting connected with the Fifth Avenue theater of New York. According to one account, it was during the performance of the piece de resistance of the evening—"Hamlet"—that the patience of the audience finally broke its bounds. "Then, instantly, the frozen silence mood of the house was thawed into one of lively disgust and deep, aggressive hatred. Pandemonium broke loose. At first the gallery gods rose in their seats and discharged a fusillade of hoots, catcalls and derisive shrieks at the cowering and rattled players, and next the whole audience, with a snort and a bound, came upon their feet, and a tempest of hostile whooping and yelling, the like of which was never heard or seen in the town before, broke over and about the terrified and paralyzed players. Finally, the riot became so menacing on the part of the audience that the whole troupe fled off the stage, retreating into cover in the sheltering abysses of the big building. Then the curtain was hurriedly rung down, but for several minutes thereafter the wrathful folks maintained their warlike alignments in the auditorium, and the clamorous demonstration went on here unabated."

SKATING.

Wilson Breen easily defeated Hugh J. McCormick at St. John's, N. B., in a three mile skating race, he covering the distance in 10m. and 14s.

The Canadian skating championships will be held on the Montreal Amateur Athletic association's grounds, Monday, Feb. 5, 1894. Entries close on Feb. 3.

A letter recently received from Noreng, the skater, states that he expects to be in this country shortly, and an effort will be made to arrange a series of races for him with Johnson and Donoghue.

Harold Hagea is now in Christians, Norway. He expects to come to this country next month, and before doing so has issued a challenge to all European skaters for races at any distance up to twenty-five miles.

SHE WAS SATISFIED.

A Small Asiatic in Washington Attracts Much Attention.

"The other day," said a congressman, "my wife was passing one of the legations of the Orient. It was a bright, warm, balmy day, almost like summer, in truth. Out in the front yard was one of the ladies of the house, resplendent in complicated silks, and with her blue-black hair full of gold pins and ornaments in the guise of miniature fans. But what caught the feminine eye of my wife was a baby this daughter of the sun bore in her arms. It had black eyes and black hair, and looked like a little splinter of Asia. Of course my wife paused. No woman on earth could have done less. A new baby is always a subject of breathless interest to all women. But add to it the fact that it is of another and a far-off race and the natural feminine transports rise almost to frenzy. So, of course, my wife came to a dead halt. She smiled at the lady of the tea fields, and was smiled at softly in return. Then she looked at the infant. The gratified guardian, possibly its mother, approached so as to treat my wife to a fuller opportunity.

"How old is it?" interrogated my wife who has ever had a consuming thirst for data of that sort.

"Eight mont," replied the tea lady with an accent.

"Is it a boy or girl?" continued my wife, pursuing her regular system.

"Allce samee likee pa," replied the other in a pleased, bashful way. The census being now complete, my wife tendered her congratulations and left the princess of fans and the little prince to continue their afternoon."
